

ST SAYS HUBBY TOOK COIN BUT FAILED
TO GIVE IT BACK

MRS. LENA HARTIGAN IS PLAINTIFF IN CIVIL ACTION AGAINST HUSBAND.

One chapter of the domestic troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Hartigan was revealed in the district court yesterday when Mrs. Hartigan brought suit against her husband to secure an accounting of their joint partnership in financial matters. The plaintiff asks the court to appoint a receiver until such time as their financial affairs may be finally settled.

The plaintiff asserts in her bill of complaint that she at one time had explicit confidence in her husband and gave him large sums of money to invest for her, with the understanding that they would take all profits equally. She asserts that she worked at various times and gave her husband at least $3,500.

On February 13 of this year she alleges her husband absconded from the state and deserted her before making an accounting of the money she had given him in trust. She claims that he has an interest in certain real estate, of which she should receive a half, and she also claims that he holds a $1,600 note given by Lillie Kenney, of which she should receive half.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Henry C. Smith.
